STAGE SET IN WASHINGTON FOR INITIAL SESSION DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE TOMORROW, NOV. 12

World's "Best Minds" to Discuss Vital International Affairs, And Limitation of Naval Armament of All the Powers.

By WILLIAM B. WARNER, Federal News Service Correspondent.

During the sessions of the Disarmament Conference in Washington, the Flat Hat each week will give to its readers the results of the week written in condensed form. This, we believe, is a unique feature for a college paper, that of having special correspondents write for the paper. Needless to say, the service will cost the paper quite a bit. The first story tells of the personnel of the conference, and its aims. We believe that this service will be of aid to our subscribers, as it is next to impossible to get any definite story in condensed form from the newspapers.

In the march of peoples and nations towards human liberty, there have been three great events. The writing of the Magna Charta, recognizing the principle of human liberty of the individual, was the first. The second one, the Constitutional Convention of 1789, went further and applied this principle of liberty to nations, while the third one, the Versailles Conference, applied it to a group of nations.

FOR PERPETUAL PEACE

The Conference on Limitations of Armaments, unlike anything ever held before, bringing together the greatest minds of the world, is another event, the final event, if you please, which will complete this cycle. The same principle of the Magna Charta will be worked out here in its relation to the whole world, with a view to perpetual peace.

REASON FOR CONFERENCE

The question is daily asked, "Why is this Conference being held?" The reason goes way back to George Washington's time. Every school boy is taught that the Father of the Nation warned future generations not to become entangled in European alliances or to meddle in our neighbors' affairs. Because of the fact that it was impossible for the United States to ratify the Versailles Treaty for the reason that the Senate was not willing to delegate to a super-state the war making powers of Congress, and because the Senate refused to enter any alliance that would obligate the United States to become actively interested in European affairs, we did not become a party to the treaty. And yet, in refusing to become a party to this treaty, we did not give up our desire, purely unselfish and

William and Mary Nine To Go North

Team That Beat Pennsylvania To Repeat Northern Jaunt Next Spring.

William and Mary College already has arranged eight games on its Northern baseball trip next spring. The trip extends as far as New York City, and negotiations for a ninth game are being conducted with Yale.

The trip schedule follows:

April 24—University of Virginia.
April 25—St. John's College.
April 26—United States Naval Academy.
April 27—Johns Hopkins University.
April 28—University of Delaware.
April 29—Lafayette College.
May 1—New York University.
May 2—City College of New York.

The 1922 invasion will begin fourteen days later than William and Mary's pilgrimage last season, when the team representing America's second oldest institution of learning defeated University of Pennsylvania, and lost to Lehigh in the ninth inning by a 7-6 score. Dewey Marshall, star pitcher of the William and Mary club, reported to the Cincinnati National League team at the close of the college season, and was farmed out to Atlanta. He is now the property of the Washington American League Club. Prospects are very bright for another winning club.

Home games already scheduled include Lafayette University, of Vermont, and University of Delaware.

Members of Alpha Club Entertained

Mrs. Coleman Delightfully Entertains Members and Guests of Women's Organizations.

On Monday night, October 31, from 8 to 10, the Alpha Club entertained at a most delightful Hallowe'en party in the Coleman's cellar. Each member of the club invited a guest, who was asked to masquerade.

The unsuspecting victim, peering in at the darkened front doorway, was somewhat startled by the weird tones of the hostess ghost bidding him welcome to the land of witches, "ha'nts," black cats, and goblins. She followed tremblingly the long line of white sheeted "departed spirits" through the very dimly lighted hallway to the door of the cellar, and then hesitatingly down the steps to the cellar, from whence issued the most dreadful moans and shrieks of the spirits abroad on Hallowe'en. I have a suspicion that Flip's violin was the cat. The Coleman's cat is entirely too well-fed and too well-bred to make such sounds.) The cellar was divided into several rooms. Two of them had fires in them, and it was here that one met fellow victims, now peacefully eating peanuts and popping popcorn.

There were the most remarkable costumes.—Sue Byrd Thompson had developed into an awe-inspiring pirate with a red sash and a sword, a ring in her nose, and the top of a sterno can dangling gracefully from her ear;

Joyner's Run For Touchdown the Feature Play.—Indians Fumbled Continually.—Line Failed To Hold At the Critical Moments.

Fumbling and poor tackling caused William and Mary to go down in defeat before Catholic University at Newport News November 5. The score was 27 to 13.

The score should have been twenty points for W. & M., as Flanders took the ball across for a touchdown, but fumbled when tackled fiercely.

Outplayed during the first half, the Indians fought well during the second half, and took the fight to the Washington eleven.

Joyner's great run of 85 yards for a touchdown from kickoff was the redeeming feature of W. & M.'s play, together with Hastings play at end and fullback, and ground gaining feats of Joyce Levvy.

The Daily Press described the game in detail as follows:

To start the game, Catholic University kicked off to William and Mary on the forty-yard line, Flanders went through the line for five yards, Bennett for a yard; they failed to gain and lost the ball by a fumble. The ball being lost on the fifty-yard line, Curran went through the line for five yards, but they were off side. They completed a short forward pass, fumbled and Sorg recovered for William and Mary. William and Mary fumbled on their first attempt and Catholic "U" got the ball. The ball was then on the thirty-five yard line, Curran went through the left side for seven yards and G. McCarthy made it first down, backed by splendid interference when he went around left end for fifteen yards. C. McCarthy dashed through the line, through a big hole for twenty yards, Curran went through for ten yards, the Catholic "U" linemen boxing the William and Mary players for big holes. McCarthy failed to gain. Riley tried it around end, but failed. C. McCarthy hit the line for three yards. C. McCarthy then took the ball for an end run of eight yards and another first down, putting the ball in William and Mary's territory. A forward pass, Lynch to Corwin, took the ball to the ten-yard line. Curran went through for five yards, Riley for three and Curran then took the ball over for the first touchdown of the game. Lynch kicked goal.

L. Levvy Starring

Lynch kicked off to William and Mary over the goal line and the ball was brought out to the twenty-yard line. Bennett went through the line for ten yards. Hastings failed to gain. Flanders made a yard around end. Bennett made four yards through the line and Hastings punted

Rhodes Scholarship Candidates Chosen

Announcement has been made that Otto S. Lowe and Vernon M. Geddy have been selected as the William and Mary candidates from Virginia for the Rhodes Scholarship to Oxford. At the same time J. C. Phillips was named as the William and Mary candidate from Maryland.

Lowe is captain of the baseball team, and this spring will make his third year with the nine. He was a letter man in football for two years. His popularity is attested by the number of offices he has held since coming here. Lowe has attained excellent marks in scholarship.

An alumnus, "Bugs" Geddy, is the other Virginia candidate from William and Mary. He was a stellar athlete while at the college, and coached the University of Virginia freshman team. Like Lowe, he is an excellent student.

While Phillips is not a letter man, he has manifested in many ways his fondness for outdoor sports. Phillips, like the other two, has managed to amass a formidable bunch of "A" credits.

William and Mary, so far as our memory goes, has never had a man chosen from the college itself as the Rhodes scholar. Every dog has his day, however, and with the strong candidates put up by the college this fall, Alma Mater enjoys an excellent opportunity of having one of her sons selected as the Virginia, or Maryland-Rhodes scholar.

Chi Beta Phi Holds Its First Meeting

Chi Beta Phi held its first regular meeting of the year last Friday, November the fourth. An interesting hour and a half was spent in round-table discussions of the papers presented by the members.

R. C. Jennings presented the first paper on the program. His subject was "The Causes of Twinning." He showed very clearly that hypertrophy of the hypophysis had nothing to do with twinning. J. G. Pollard then presented the subject of "Vitamins and Food Deficiency Diseases," after which followed a lengthy discussion on the foods containing vitamins.

Professor R. C. Young gave the final subject of the evening. He explained with diagrams the latest theory of the composition of structure of the atom. "When one electron runs out its course while circling the central nucleus and runs into another electron, the electrons shimmy terrifically at the rate of one thousand times five hundred trillion times per second," Professor Young stated. A groan from Fulcher was audible. No one disputed the professor.

Those present among the faculty were Professor Young, Professor Davis, Professor Robb, and Professor Grimes. Student members present were Fulcher, Cline, Jennings, Hoskins, W. E. Davis, Hopkins, and J. G. Pollard.

DEATH OF MRS. TYLER

Mrs. Annie Tucker Tyler, wife of Dr. Lyon G. Tyler, former president of William and Mary College, died last week in St. Luke's hospital, Richmond, after an illness of several months.

Mrs. Tyler was the daughter of Lieutenant-Colonel St. George Tucker, of the Confederate army, and of Elizabeth Gilmer, daughter of Governor Thomas Walker Gilmer. She was the late president of the Williamsburg Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, and a member of the governing board of the Colonial Dames. She was a member of many other organizations also.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Tyler is survived by two daughters—Mrs. James Southall Wilson, of the University of Virginia, and Mrs. Alfred Miles, wife of Captain Alfred Miles, of the United States navy; one son, John Tyler, a professor at the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., and five grandchildren. She leaves one sister, Mrs. Lucy Richardson, of Memphis, Tenn. Captain and Mrs. Miles are now in China.

Mrs. Tyler was regarded as a woman of exceptional character. She was devoted to all her friends, to whom she greatly endeared herself.

The wife of the President Emeritus was beloved by those who knew her when she was at the college.

AUTUMN AND WINTER FASHION DISPLAYS

The markets of the world have been drawn upon in the gatherings of the extensive displays of apparel and merchandise now here.

Meyers Brothers Store's merchandising power and resourcefulness is reflected in the impressive quantities and varieties of the new season's goods.

There is a cheerful note in the new fashions, emphasized by rich brilliant color tones; a cheerfulness that has found its way even into the prices which happily follow very reasonable levels.

New Tailored Suits of Divers Mode

A hint of disagreement among authorities adds interest to the Winter Suit mode—some favor the straight tubular silhouette, others are equally insistent upon the more careless, unbelted, slightly flaring type. All agree that it must be slender—and youthful. As a consequence of the controversy, you have the advantage of a diversity of charming models to choose from, all sponsored by accepted authorities.

Winter Frocks Show Novel Trimming

The vogue for black continues undiminished, though marvellous creations are to be had in such rich shades as Nattier blue, kasha, combined with taupe, dull reds such as Byzantine and Genoa, wood and leaf browns and others. Side effects in draperies are noted on silk frocks; bloused backs in peasant fashion are a feature of both cloth and silk.

The Picturesque Trend of Millinery

Hats both large and small seem to veer away from the conventional types of other seasons. Shapes and trimmings are showing marked tendency toward the picturesque, ably seconded by a riot of color in all manner of garniture. Velour de Russe and hatters plush are favored material while trimmings cover a wide latitude, varying from fur ornaments to metalized ostrich.

Hosiery that Intrigues The Fancy

Hosiery is one of the details of the fine art of dressing to which much attention must be paid nowadays. Coloring, texture, weave, garniture and perfection of fit—ma foi, but they must be snug: Therefore, our exquisite new fall and winter styles, their new shades and perfect fashioning, will please you mightily.

Rapid Strides Made In Women's Athletics

The work in women's athletics is well under way. The plans for this fall include classes in hockey, tennis, and swimming, as well as the regular gym classes and normal work. About forty girls have signed up for hockey, and if they develop a fairly formidable team—and there is no reason why they shouldn't, if they only come out, and remember when they do come out that they are playing hockey, not golf—it is hoped to have a game with Sweetbriar. More than a hundred girls have signed up for tennis, hence the necessity for more courts. The swimming pool is about ready to be opened. Regular classes in swimming will be conducted, and certain hours will be set aside for recreational swimming.

Basketball will begin about Thanksgiving. The prospects of a college team seem to be very bright, as there are quite a few "stars" of high school teams among the new girls. Inter-collegiate games have been definitely arranged with Fredericksburg and Westhampton, and possibly Sweetbriar. We also expect to have class teams and run a series of games for the class championship.

In the spring, we hope to offer baseball, track, and possibly archery, and, of course, swimming and tennis. Hiking clubs will be organized, possibly in the fall, and continue through the spring.

Tennis Enthusiasts Perfect Organization

Last Friday night, men students who were interested in tennis met in the chapel to organize a tennis club. J. G. Pollard, Jr., was elected president, and F. F. Wilshin, secretary-treasurer.

A committee was appointed to look into the matter of getting four or five more tennis courts for next spring to accommodate the large number of players. The subject of athletic letters for tennis teams was discussed.

Members of the Tennis Club are J. G. Pollard, Wilshin, Hancock, Cline, Burfoot, C. P. Pollard, Hanna, Johnson, Bell, Parks, Davis, Williams, Taylor, Evtrevvette, Zehmer, Vaughn, Reed, and Meade.

Students who are interested in joining the club should see one of the officers.

to the Catholics' forty-yard line. Riley went through for five yards. They were penalized fifteen yards for holding. They failed to gain and a bad pass cost them ten yards, putting them under the shadow of their goal posts. Lynch then punted to the fifty-yard line. Jones then was sent in by Fincher to replace Chalkley. Jones gained a yard through the line. L. Levvy made seven yards around end, Bennett a yard, and Jones made it first down. L. Levvy then skirted the end for eight yards and the first quarter ended.

Score Tied

At the start of the second quarter, the ball was in William and Mary's possession on the twenty-yard line. Flanders lost seven yards on an end run. Bennett went through for three yards. A pretty forward pass from L. Levvy to Hastings for thirty yards netted a touchdown for William and Mary and Todd kicked goal, tying the score.

William and Mary kicked to Catholic "U" and the ball was downed on the thirty-yard line. G. McCarthy on a double pass went around end for fourteen yards. Curran failed to gain and G. McCarthy gained a yard. C. McCarthy went through for five yards and went around end for twenty-five yards a moment later, putting the ball on the twenty-yard line. Riley hit the line for eight yards. Curran got a yard and a half and G. McCarthy made it first down. Curran couldn't gain, G. McCarthy went through the line for four yards. Riley hit the line for two yards and Curran skirted the end, two tacklers missing him for the second touchdown. Lynch kicked goal.

Sorg Fumbles

Catholic "U" kicked to William and Mary and Sorg who received the ball fumbled it on his own forty-yard line, C. McCarthy recovering the ball. Curran, with great interference, went around left end for eight yards. C. McCarthy hit the line for a first down. Riley gained five yards through the line and C. McCarthy three. G. McCarthy followed him with five. Riley got three and then Curran took the ball over for his third touchdown of the game. Lynch this time missed goal. The score now stood 20 to 7.

Catholic "U" kicked and a William and Mary player was downed on the twenty-yard line, J. Levvy, who replaced his brother, L. Levvy, skirted the ends for seventeen yards. Bennett made a yard, and then J. Levvy went around the ends for twenty yards. Joyner failed to gain. They were then penalized five yards near the goal for off side. Then William and Mary started its fumbling and Hagen, center, recovered for the Catholics. The first half ended shortly afterwards with the ball in Catholic "U" territory.

How Touchdown Was Lost

At the start of the second half, Todd kicked to the Catholic's twenty-five yard line. Riley gained a yard. Curran failed to gain and Lynch punted to the forty-yard line. J. Levvy then went around end for twenty-five yards. Hastings made a yard through center. J. Levvy then put the ball within sight of goal by a thirteen-yard run through the line. The ball moved to the one and a half yard line. William and Mary on the next play was off side for a five-yard penalty. Hastings gained a yard through the line. Joyner failed to gain, Flanders went over the line, but fumbled and a Catholic player fell on it.

The ball was then brought out to the twenty-yard line. Lynch kicked to the sixty-yard line. J. Levvy made a couple of yards and Hastings three. Joyner got two. Hastings punted to the Catholics' ten-yard line. Donahue and Curran couldn't gain through the line and Lynch punted to the thirty-five yard line. J. Levvy lost five yards. A forward pass for twenty-five yards, Levvy to Hastings was then completed, putting the ball on the ten-yard line, but the ball was brought back, as both sides were off side. J. Levvy gained five yards. Donahue intercepted a forward pass on the twenty-yard line. Sheehan and Curran failed to gain and Lynch punted to the sixty-yard line. Levvy fumbled and a Catholic player recovered. Curran then drew a forward pass for twenty yards to Corwin. A twenty-yard pass put the ball on the five-yard line. Donahue hit the line for two yards. Curran failed but G. McCarthy took the ball over for the fourth and last touchdown for them and Lynch kicked goal.

The Big Play

Catholic then kicked off to William and Mary and Joyner raced through the entire Catholic team without interference for eighty yards and a touchdown.

INDIANS ON THE WAR-PATH

Indian blood is burning hot,
Her fire is going strong,
Here is where we take a shot,
And it surely won't go wrong.

Another scalp we'll add today,
To victories of the past,
For W. & M. is in the fray
To fight until the last.

The Red and Blue is falling down,
Before the Indian stride,
And we'll make a bonfire of the town
And scorch the Spider's hide.

We'll ring the bell in Tyler Hall,
And hide the pony good,
And give "Sherlock" a gold football,
To see only what he should.

EFFICIENCY PLUS

When all is said and done, probably the most noticeable thing about the Presidential visit was the efficiency and dispatch with which the arrangements were carried through. From start to finish there was not a hitch. Each event in the chain was run off smoothly, and until the time that the final movie camera clicked and the President waved aloft his silk hat in graceful farewell, there was an uninterrupted unfoldment according to schedule, of the day's program, that baffled those unaccustomed to such things.

It was evident that a well oiled machine was in operation. Who set it up? The answer must be to assign credit to every individual who helped in any way whatsoever in the affair. Cooperation was the day's watchword, and it went for everybody, students, faculty and townspeople.

As soon as it was definitely settled that the President would be here, a committee appointed by the Board of Visitors set to work to make proper preparations. In this they were ably assisted by members of the faculty, who were assigned various posts of responsibility. For several weeks machinery was slowly set up, until by the morning of October 19 the framework was complete, and the wheels began to turn. As soon as the President arrived at Yorktown, the committees started functioning. Automobiles were needed, accommodations necessary, food—in large quantities—required, and divers other things requisite. They were all provided for, to what degree can be judged by the fact that letters are now pouring in from everywhere to the effect that the entire affair was the best handled that any of the visitors had ever attended, and the most inspiring.

The Flat Hat congratulates and thanks sincerely on behalf of the student body by all those who in any way, however large or small, contributed to making the installation exercises so efficient, and at the same time inspiring.

MORE HOME GAMES

The discussion by the Flat Hat Club of the modern college athletic policy brings before the student body a subject that President Chandler and J. G. Driver, athletic director, have been giving serious thought to for sometime.

In a nutshell, the situation this year was one that was inevitable. To stage more football games at Cary Field would have involved an outlay of money beyond the ability of the college to pay. That is, teams of big reputation will not play away from their own grounds unless there exists a long standing rivalry, and the guarantee meets or is above actual expenses.

Athletics here are growing. Everyone realizes this fact. This growth has called for a greater expenditure of funds than at any time in the past. Many things that the athletic authorities wanted to do could not be done this year. But next year there will be more football games at Cary Field.

In basketball and baseball this year more games will be played at home than in any previous year. The new gymnasium provides a much larger court, and greater facilities for spectators.

The Peninsula Fair Association has offered the use of its grounds for track meets, and we hope to have two meets staged there next spring.

The completion of the concrete road between Williamsburg and Newport News by next fall will bring larger crowds to Williamsburg for football and other games than at any time in the past.

The athletic authorities are not unmindful of the fact that it is necessary to stage more games at home than abroad, if a real college spirit is to be preserved. The present policy has that end in view, but time must be given to work out the policy.

IN RICHMOND?

When the Indians and the Spiders meet in Richmond Thanksgiving, the student body will play an important part in the final result of the game. Will we go in and give the best we have for the college, not by blocking, tackling, kicking, passing, running, or manouevering, but by plain old-fashioned yelling!

The Spider crew will be at Broad Street Park prepared to fight, and the students of the Westhampton Institution will be there prepared to stage a yelling battle with the men and women from William and Mary.

Esprit de corps, Marechal Ney called it, that indefinable thing that makes men fight more than they are physically capable of. Grantland Rice said the right kind of a person has a competitive soul, on that pushes him on to usually unsurmountable heights to compete against a superior. He added that the man with the final drive, urged on by his competitive soul, usually won, not only in athletic contests, but in the battles of life.

So it's up to the team to fight for Alma Mater, and the students' duty that day will be to conduct themselves as William and Mary men and women; and back the team verbally to the best of their several abilities. Will you be there doing your share, bunched with the rest of the students and alumni from William and Mary?

OPEN FORUM

Bare knees! Don't be angry, Miss College Student, for I'm not going to say a word against them! If you really want to 'wear 'em rolled,' that's your affair. You're doing no moral wrong. But why, oh why advertise the fact? Going down town, with stockings rolled beneath a short skirt, is not playing fair with the college. There is no necessity for primness, but there is also no necessity for flaunting in the public eye your way of dressing. If you are careless, if you "can't be bothered" to pull down your dress, you are merely showing a disregard of personal appearance, a lack of self esteem. In that case the late "movie" magazine is right when it declares that college girls are notoriously careless in personal appearance! Or perchance you think you're shocking some one? Surely not! It's too common a custom! Is there just a bit of bravado in your showing your knees? How very—you must let me say it, for it's true—how very young. By all means, wear your socks, if you will—but don't advertise them!

We are glad to say that this state of affairs has been improved a great deal during the last year, largely due to action by the Women's Student Council.

altruistic, to bring about a lasting world peace.

The alliance between Germany, Austria-Hungary and Italy on the one hand, and Great Britain, France and Russia on the other, brought about war. What plainer object lesson to George Washington's admonition could there be? Alliances between nations are dangerous things, especially as they are most always made with a selfish, greedy motive. If that greed is not satisfied, then the trouble starts.

THE ANGLO-JAPANESE ALLIANCE

Now Japan and Great Britain have an alliance. It still has another year before it will be ineffective. Great Britain is not very anxious to renew this alliance for another term of ten years, but she cannot offend Japan by telling her so. At a meeting in London several months ago this question was being thrashed out. The Dominions were all represented by their Premiers and they argued strenuously against the renewal of the alliance. Affairs were at a critical point and leaders in England were at a loss to determine what should be done.

DEMAND CUT IN NAVY

Here in the United States sentiment of the public had crystallized to the point where a "naval holiday" was demanded. Senator Borah was pushing his resolution for a naval cut, Great Britain, Japan and the United States being the powers at which his efforts were directed. The public demanded that something be done to lighten the economic burden placed upon the world as a result of the war. Above all this was the question of Pacific and Far Eastern questions. What about Shantung? How can British, Portugese, the Netherlands, Belgium's and our own interests in China be protected? How can China be protected? What are we going to do about the Open Door policy? Can these questions be safely and satisfactorily settled if we pursue a program of disarmament?

Strangely enough, it was at this critical moment that President Harding was given to understand that if a conference on disarmament was held at which Far Eastern and Pacific questions would be discussed, England would not refuse an invitation to it.

Thus it was that President Harding issued his call to the conference. The major powers, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan were invited to the Conference on Limitation of Armaments to discuss and agree on a practical plan of limiting offensive armament and to settle Far Eastern and Pacific questions.

China, Belgium, Portugal and the Netherlands were invited to the Conference to discuss Far Eastern and Pacific questions, China obviously being the party most interested, with the other three interested to the extent of their interests in the Far East.

DISCUSS NAVAL DISARMAMENT

The layman believes that parties to the Conference are attempting to bring about total disarmament of the world. That is a misconception arising from the wording of the invitations issued to the powers by the President and is not at all unnatural. The point for which they are aiming is that of limiting the offensive naval forces of each nation, this point to be based on a ratio of the present various naval forces and guaranteeing each power the fullest protection with the minimum of expense. It is believed in official circles in Washington that land forces will not be re-adjusted. They will undoubtedly be discussed, but it is not planned to bring them within the final action of the Conference.

U. S. HAS PLAN

The United States has a set, practical and sane naval program to lay before the delegates which at this writing has not been made public. It is entirely fitting that we should have such a program to start to work on inasmuch as we are the hosts of the Conference. Certain factions have been clamoring for complete naval disarmament or a 50 per cent reduction, but even that is too radical a move. The plan will not disclose such a large cut, it being the general opinion here that obsolete ships will be destroyed and future building of ships carried on in a very limited way.

It is not at all unlikely that the invited powers will have ideas of their own to bring into immediate action on the question of naval policy. All the delegations have arrived in Washington and are installed in their various quarters, hard at work preparing data, etc. Each delegation has a corps of clerks, technical men, army and navy officers and translators, though these are few as most all speak English fluently and faultlessly.

DELEGATES TO CONFERENCE

England will be represented by Mr. Arthur J. Balfour, former Minister of Foreign Affairs. Lloyd George will probably come later on, but cannot leave at this time owing to pressure of affairs in London. Admiral Beatty, the modern Nelson, will be Chief Naval Advisor.

Premier Briand will have charge of France's interests, assisted by M. Viviani, M. Sarant, and Marshall Foch.

Italy is sending General Diaz, her war hero, Senator Carlo Schanzer, Vittorio Rolandi Ricci, Ambassador to Washington, Senator Luigi Albertini, journalist, owner of Corriere della Sera Milan, and Signor Meda.

Japan, Prince Tokugawa, President Japanese House of Peers, Admiral Tomosaburo Kato, Secretary of Imperial Navy, and Ambassador Shidehara.

China, Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, Minister at London, Dr. Alfred Sao-Ke Sze, Minister to United States, Dr. Liang, formerly Minister of Foreign Affairs, and Vice-Admiral Tsai Ting-Kan.

Belgium, Ambassador Baron de Cartier de Marchienne, Chevalier de Wanters d'Oplinter, Technical Adviser, and F. Cattier, Technical Adviser.

The representatives from Portugal have not been announced.

The Netherlands, Foreign Minister Jonkheer, Dr. H. A. Van Karnebeet, who is also President of the League

RYPPLING RYMES

Now, on politics my ramblings lead —a reformation we surely need, for things have come to such a state, that for each other we've only hate. To win, the best man hasn't a chance, for elections are all fixed in advance.
Now certain men who think they're smart, have gotten off to an early start; and put up men who they knew would win, because the gang would put them in, by voting not as they really thought, but because by some they had been taught, that if they only stuck to them they'd look out for them in the end. Now it's up to us, what shall we do? Shall we keep it up the whole year through? Or stop right now and take a crack, at those who knife Alma Mater in the back? I hope this politicking's at an end, so on Thanksgiving we all can lend, that good old "pep" so resolute, and knock the Spiders for a loop.

—DON O. HUGH.

"It was so cold during my rat-year at V. P. I. that we used to pour water out of the barracks and slide down the icicles."

Inquisitive "Duc": "Well, how did you get back?"

"Duc" Lewis: "These salmon are certainly fine."

"Duc" Buckner: "They taste like fish to me."

Student: "What is mind?"

Professor: "Matter."

Student: "What is matter?"

Professor (indignant): "Never mind."

ONCE UPON A TIME

Cooke: "Ferdie, who you got a date with tonight?"

Ferdie: "Nobody different."

Cooke: "Somebody indifferent, eh?"

M. Tennis: "Dr. Hall, is pants singular or plural?"

Dr. Hall: "If a man wears them, it's plural."

M. Tennis: "Well, if he doesn't?"

Dr. Hall: "It's singular."

Professor Gooch has added two new poets to nineteenth century English writers.

Kelly and Sheats are their names.
Ask him about them.

Fair Co-ed: "He made me mad, and I told him he mustn't see me any more."

Interested Listener: "What did he do then?"

Fair One: "Got up and turned out the lights."

"Duc" (Looking at Young Coon):
"What kind of animal is that?"

Soph: "That's a monkey."

"Duc": "Gee, it must be a young one!"

German Wop: "What's the name of your car?"

Italian Wop: "Chewterbacca — and yours?"

German Wop: "Spitz."

"BULL DURHAM"

"Little maid, are you from Durham-town?"

I asked in questing mood.

"And Sir, why think you that?"

To me she softly cooed.

"Oh, 'tis plain to see," I cried;

"For all these things are known

"When—'er—I glance below

"I see you roll your own."

"And, Sir, I have your number, too."

She retorted with devilish glee

Then shook her curls, and frisked
her skirt,

And showed a dimpled knee.

"You cannot live so far away,"

She laughed out loud and full,

"For all that I can hear about

"Is plain old Durham 'bull.'"

—E. W. W.

Si, I hoid a good one the other day.
A fellow says to me: "Did you hear about the hold-up in Smith's back yard?" I says "No, tell me about it." He says "Two clothes pins held up a shoit."

Soph No. 1: "Pool sure is a continental game."

Soph No. 2: "Why so?"

Soph No. 1: "You play French pool in the United States and put English on the ball."

Coed: "Will you return my love?"

Cakeater: "Certainly, I have no use for it."

STAGE SET FOR DIS- ARMAMENT CONFERENCE

of Nations, Dr. F. Ballarts, Dr. Blokland, and Dr. E. Moresco.

United States, Secretary of State Hughes, Senator Lodge, majority leader in the Senate, Senator Underwood, minority leader in the Senate, and Mr. Elihu Root, former Secretary of State.

WHAT WILL THEY DO?

Imagine the picture next Saturday when the delegates gather around the table for the initial meeting! Most of them there with a sincere desire to accomplish everything which will lead to a real and lasting peace, which will lighten the burden of the world; which will bring order and understanding out of the frightful jumble of the last few years. Will the spirit of the Magna Charta, the Constitutional Convention, and the Versailles Conference prevail? If the invited delegates will respond to the unselfishness and vision of President Harding and Mr. Hughes, and most of them will, the principle of world liberty and peace will be an actual fact and not a dream.

She (icily): "Oh, were you at my last party?"

He (also): "I hope so!"

Caroline Hill, Frances Gibbons, Florence Fleet, and Anna Belle Dennis had dropped off several years and a few inches of skirt and were making very natural little girls; Margaret Tuthill was a typical Spanish dancer with her dark hair and her red skirt. Gertrude Ebel won the prize for managing to bite into and completely absorb a doughnut tied to a string before anyone else; others had to bob for apples. Everyone was presented with a Coca-Cola free. Finally, when the guests were all tired of eating and acting and the fire was growing dim and the wind was beginning to howl around the corners, everyone gathered in one of the rooms and Mrs. Coleman started a ghost story, the "Grey Room." More people were killed, one right after the other, and one was glad to have one's friend nearby, even though that friend was taking over half of the room on one's chair and another one of one's friends was sitting cruelly on one's foot. For what matters a crushed foot or a cramped imagination when its Hallowe'en and ghosts are about? The story finished, the deaths were explained as quite natural and scientific occurrences, and the party had just time enough to get back to the dormitories before the ten o'clock bell. Those present were: (Alpha Club Members) Mabel Stratton, Myree Hutchings, Mary Holman, Maria Holman, Madeleine Blakey, Elizabeth Pate, Dorothy Terrill, Martha Barksdale, Bettie Woodward, Charlotte Shipman, Bettie Sue Jessup, Martha Flippo, Susanne Garrett, T. Lee, Emily Hall, Margaret Bridges, Alice Person, Anna Haile; and guests, Elizabeth van Laer, Julia Waters, Thomas Bland, Frances Gibbons, Anna Belle Dennis, Elizabeth Jackson, Anita Rucker, Mildred Barksdale, Mary Ayer, Gertrude Ebel, Mildred Vaiden, Dorothy Wilkinson, Pet Lee, Margaret Tuthill, Caroline Hill, Sue Byrd Thompson, Lucille Jackson, Florence Fleet, Mary Godwin, and Margaret Ritchie.

PLANS NEARLY COMPLETED FOR THANKSGIVING DAY

Murphy's Hotel, commencing at 6 o'clock. There will be a number of speeches, all short, which over 150 alumni are expected to hear. But the feature of the card will be the good old-fashioned turkey dinner, with plenty of gobblers, cranberry sauce, pickles, coffee, cake, and all the other things that go to make up what is known in the southwest as a "sumptuous repast." Mr. Alumnus, or Miss (Mrs?) Alumna, you would do well to be there. Music of the peppy kind will be rendered by a Richmond orchestra, and it is rumored that William and Mary's recently written Alma Mater "Pep" song will be tried out for the first time by Dr. Crawford's Quartet.

GAME GOOD ONE

The game will be, it is believed, one of the hardest-fought yet staged between the Indians and the Spiders. Up till two weeks ago the local eleven appeared to have the edge, but Dobson has apparently worked wonders with his charges, and today on paper they appear to have a decided advantage, as follows:

Richmond, 14; Catholic "U," 0.

William and Mary, 13; Catholic "U," 27.

Richmond, 41; Wake Forest, 0.

William and Mary, 21; Wake Forest, 14.

The Indians, barring accidents, can place in the backfield the fastest set of backs in the State in the Levvy brothers, White, and Joyner. They have good driving men in Hastings, Chalkley, Bennett, and others.

With an interesting meeting of the teachers of the State scheduled, a rip-snorting dyed-in-the-wool gridiron battle carded, and a nice brown turkey dinner following, it is obvious that the day cannot help but be one of enjoyment unconfined.

At the Jefferson Hotel that night the Boat Club of Richmond will give a subscription dance, to which all William and Mary students and alumni are invited.

29 STUDENTS TO JOIN FRATERNITIES

Durham, N. C., Nov. 3.—"Pledge Day" has passed at Trinity College and twenty-nine young men of the college are started on their way to membership in the various fraternities. Sigma Chi pledged eleven of the total. Rushing and pledging were conducted under rules formulated by the Pan-Hellenic Council. By action of the council and faculty freshmen pledged to fraternities cannot be initiated as members before February 10, and then only upon condition that they have passed four courses of study.
